

Tutors Needed for Adult Learners in Your Community

Are you a high school or college graduate? That means you had at least 12 years of education to learn what was essential in reading, writing, science, social studies, and math. You got that done when you were younger, likely had fewer responsibilities and more free time. Imagine the challenge of doing that work it now...

Over 80,000 adults aged 25+ in Westchester County do not have a high school degree. Those that are looking to complete their GED need your help.

GEDConnect! - a tutoring program operating at libraries around Westchester County - is looking for volunteers. We provide the training and support. You provide the time and encouragement to help adult learners meet their goals.

Bi-lingual tutors are especially needed in several locations. If you can dedicate 2-3 hours per week, at least 2 times a month please contact Lisa Kahn: (914) 231-3264 or lkahn@wlsmail.org.
